Created by Clare Spender

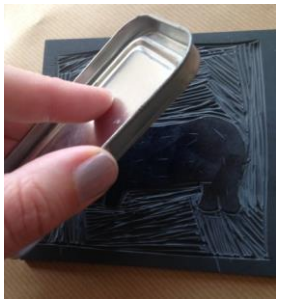
Have a go at ..... creating hand printed corgi wrapping paper!

What you will need

Lino and lino cutting tools (please look/download the lino cut printing project)
Brown parcel paper
Red, black and yellow ink stamp
Ribbon to finish off parcel
Pack of blank cards/card to create Christmas cards and gift tags (if you wish)

Download the lino cut printing project, this will show you how to cut your lino. If you cannot get hold of any lino then a large potato cut the right shape will also work (erasers also create great stamps – there is a project on the Moodle!)

Create a large enough space onto a table and roll your brown paper out. You will have to weigh down the corners to prevent the roll from curling. Then press your lino cut design onto an ink pad (you could use printing ink and a sponge if you would prefer) and then start printing. When you have printed a length of paper, leave to dry and then roll up and continue to print. (But you could make sheets if you would prefer)

You can change the colour of your prints. I have used black and red and then created a small crown lino cut and printed in red and yellow. You can then cut your design out and create gift tags and Christmas cards as well if you wish!


Happy Corgi Christmas!